PART 1

U. S. CATHOLIC MISSION COUNCIL

ORIGIN AND PURPOSE

At the height of Vatican Council II, the National Conference of Catholic Bishops in 1967 established its Episcopal Commission for Missions. This Commission immediately initiated a series of meetings with the corresponding committees of the Conference of Major Superiors of Men and the Leadership Conference of Women Religious. Shortly afterwards a committee representing pontifical and diocesan mission agencies, and one representing lay men and women involved in the work of mission of the Church were formed. Over a period of almost two years, these five groups collaborated in forming a national coordinating group and clearing house for the U.S. Catholic missionary effort.

Then, by an action taken by the N.C.C.B. in Houston, Texas, on April 15, 1969, the United States Catholic Mission Council was established. On September 1, 1970, the Council opened its executive office in Washington, D.C.

By bringing together these five major sectors of the U.S. Church devoted in different ways to missionary activity, the Council serves as a national coordinating and communicating body. And while each group remains autonomously free to pursue its own mission goals, the Council provides a national forum for sharing and an organ for co-operating. It thus corresponds to the spirit of the Decree on the Church's Missionary Activity (Section 38) and to the letter of Ecclesiae Sanctae (III, 9 and 11).

In addition to coordination and communication, the Council through its members and staff is responsible to work towards educating and animating the U.S. Church in regard to the challenge of being a Church that is by definition missionary.

ORGANIZATION

The Mission Council consists of thirty-five members, grouped in five constitutive committees. These are:

- Seven bishops, members of the N.C.C.B. Mission Committee, representing the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, their Chairman being by office the President of the Council and Chairman of the Executive Board;
- Seven members of the C.M.S.M. Committee, representing the Conference of Major Superiors of Men, who are the general and provincial superiors of religious orders and societies of priests and brothers in this country;
- Seven members of the L.C.W.R. Global Ministry Commission, representing the Leadership Conference of Women Religious, who are general and provincial superiors of the religious orders and societies of sisters in this country;
- Seven members of the N.C.C.L. Committee on Global Mission, representing the National Council of Catholic Laity;
- Seven members of the Mission Agencies Committee, who include the national directors of the Pontifical Mission Aid Societies and similar groups, their chairman being always the national director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith.

The thirty-five member Council meets at least once a year in full Assembly, during which the major policies of the Council are discussed and decided. Between Assemblies of the Council the administration of its policies and programs is entrusted to a five-member Executive Board. This Board consists, by their office, of the respective chairpersons of the five constitutive committees.

Between meetings of the Executive Board, the activities of the Council are carried out on a full-time basis by the Executive Secretary, who is nominated by the Executive Board and elected by the full Council for a term of three years.

ACTIVITIES

General activities of the Mission Council are typical of organizations of its kind. Special activities at the present time include the following:

Programs

Washington Mission Seminars. Two-week seminars three times a year, for both missionaries on home visit and new missionaries, for mutual sharing, renewal, theological and pastoral updating, and reanimation for the missions.

Mission Animators Workshop. A two-week intensive workshop (three credits optional), directed at people in mission education and animation.

Consultations. The Council serves as a convener for bringing together representatives of mission-sending groups and agencies to confer on the experiences of American missionaries in various countries and activities abroad, with their implications for the U.S. Church.

Seminars. The Council sponsors or co-sponsors seminars on current topics relating to the Mission of the Church.

Publications

Mission Intercom. A newsletter, published ten times a year, containing concise items of missionary interest gleaned from a broad range of publications and other sources of information.

Mission Handbook. An annual publication containing statistics drawn from the Council's data bank, on U.S. Catholic personnel abroad and the countries in which they are working.

Mission Institutes. An annual compilation of available workshops and seminars of potential interest to new or furloughed missionaries.

Films. Flyers on films pertaining to the missionary nature of the Church, for use in schools, CCD programs, and adult education.

Distribution of Women Religious in the United States: 1978. A map which shows the distribution of the total number of North American sisters according to dioceses. Four smaller maps show by diocese the ratio of active sisters to total population, to Catholics, to the unchurched, and to families in poverty.

Attitudes of American Women Religious Toward the Concept of Mission. A research report which studies how North American women religious look at Mission, how they score in relationship to the five Models of Mission, and what are some of the variables which influence them in their concept of Mission.

PART II

U. S. CATHOLIC MISSION INVENTORY

GUIDELINES TO PRESENTATION

The following 1980 tabulation of United States Catholic missionaries serving abroad has been made by the U.S. Catholic Mission Council from data carefully gathered from many sources. For each of the missionaries listed in these tables, the Council has obtained a data form of basic information. The tables have been compiled from these individual forms, not from totals given by mission-sending groups, or home dioceses, or mission fields. They are, therefore, as reliable as the most diligent effort can make them, and as the constant changes in personnel will allow. Some comment, however, on each of the terms in the title of these tables is necessary.

The tables list only U.S. missionaries, which means those who are or have been United States citizens by birth or naturalization. Those who have taken out citizenship in their countries of mission service are still listed here as missionaries from the United States. On the other hand, citizens of other countries serving as members of mission-sending groups headquartered in the U.S. are not listed. For example, there are numerous Maryknoll sisters serving abroad, often in countries other than their homeland who are not U.S. citizens and therefore are not listed here among the Maryknoll sisters serving as U.S. Catholic missionaries abroad. This policy helps to prevent overlapping when the various national mission councils publish their tabulations. It must be remembered, however, that mission-sending groups which, in these tables, appear to have only very few members in a given mission field may have many more who are not of U.S. citizenship.

The tables bear the heading U.S. Catholic missionaries. This includes a small number of Catholic missionaries serving with Protestant mission-sending agencies. It also includes a small number of Protestant and Jewish volunteers serving under the auspices of Catholic agencies, for example, some of the medical personnel placed in the mission field by the Catholic Medical Mission Board.

The term missionaries is used in its generally accepted sense, including not only those engaged in the primary and subsequent stages of evangelization, but also those in the closely related areas of community service and development.

The term serving ordinarily stands for service for a long period of years, or for life. While on the other hand some groups, particularly many lay volunteer groups, provide short-term service, only those are included in these statistics who serve a minimum of one year.

The term abroad means "outside of the 48 contiguous States." The tabulation does not include, therefore, the hundreds of "home missionaries" working in parts of our country in situations comparable to any in other lands. In general, the list of "mission countries" is that followed in two decades of such data-gathering by the former Mission Secretariat and the national office of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith.

The International Liaison is a clearing house for volunteer lay personnel. Each year the Liaison polls the missions throughout the world to ascertain their needs for qualified lay expertise. The Liaison then channels these mission needs to the laity of the United States, through advertising, talks, and, more especially, through the booklet The Response. This publication is widely distributed through the United States.

The Liaison sees the work of the laity as an integral part of the total Catholic approach to the mission of the Church in the world. It constantly searches for projects whereby lay and religious work side by side, particularly in the area of temporal expertise. Towards this end, the Liaison makes every effort to work out equitable arrangements between the sending agency and the lay volunteer. The normal term of service is a minimum of two years, with possibilities for renewal.
